

ual:

Introducing 2017 Enterprise Awardess

Careers & Employability

Empowering UAL students and graduates to make a living doing what they love.

arts.ac.uk/careers

ual:

Ruta Eva Cepulyte

MA Innovation Management, Central St Martins, graduated 2016

Awarded: £5,000 and Becky Armtontsky's support with fund raising campaign

Enterprise: Praba 750 designs and manufactures fine jewellery made from recycled solid gold at a fair price, using a direct-to-consumer model and focusing on sustainability and transparency.

ual:

Cindy Liberman

BA (Hons) Fashion Contour, London College of Fashion, graduating 2017

Awarded: £5,000 and business mentoring with Becky Artmontsky

Enterprise: Lara Intimates is a sustainable lingerie brand manufactured in London and using reclaimed fabrics which seeks to empower and reconnect women with their intimate apparel.

ual:

Cathryn Hall

MA Textile Design, Chelsea College of Arts, graduated in 2016

Awarded: £5,000

Enterprise: Anneka Textiles is a luxury sustainable interiors brand designed and crafted in Britain, using eco-friendly materials to make pouffes, cushions, and baskets.

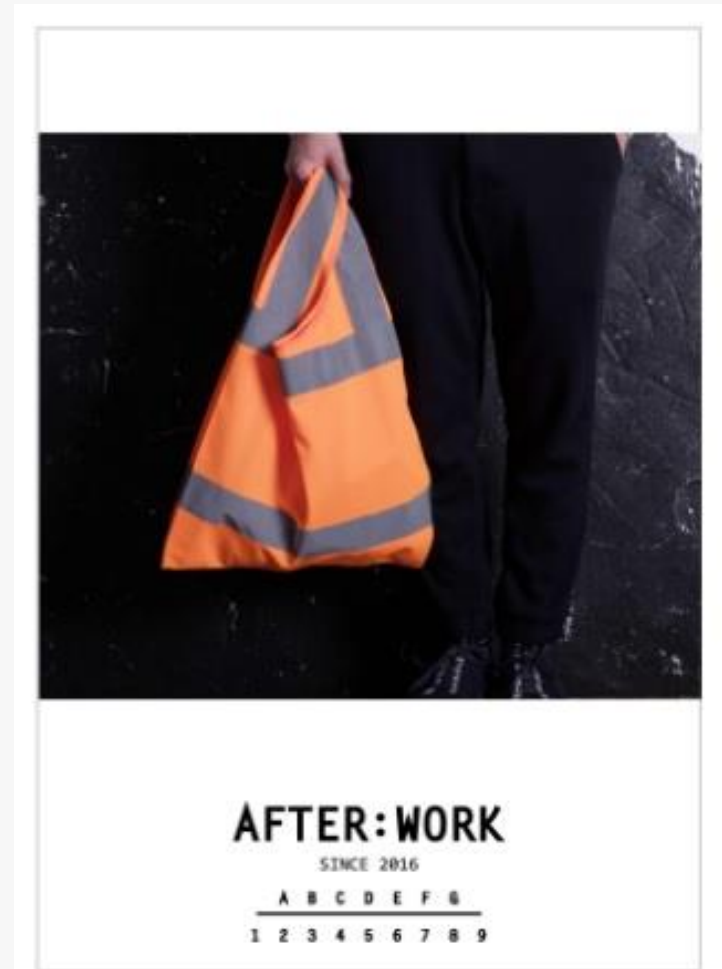

ual:

Kam Lung Wong

MA Fashion Futures, London College of Fashion, graduating in 2017

Awarded: £5,000

Enterprise: AFTER:WORK is a sustainable fashion brand that specialises in upcycling used, landfill-bound personal protective equipment (PPEs) to produce fashionable bags.

Sadia Anwar

MA Fashion Entrepreneurship & Innovation, London College of Fashion, graduating in 2017

Awarded: £500

Enterprise: Sadia Anwar is a womenswear fashion brand focused on innovating modest fashion whilst using indigenous craftsmanship through a community building programme employing female artisans in Pakistan.

Kelly Macbeth Mackay

BA (Hons) Advertising, London College of Communication, graduating in 2018

Awarded: £500

Enterprise: Halftime is a network aiming to inspire women and girls to become more active and involved in sports by promoting open discussions, interviews and helping them to find local sports teams and activities to take part in.