personal statement and reference.

APEL - Accreditation of Prior (Experiential) Learning

Applicants who do not meet these course entry requirements may still be considered in exceptional cases. The course team will consider each application that demonstrates additional strengths and alternative evidence. This might, for example, be demonstrated by:

- Related academic or work experience
- The quality of the personal statement
- A strong academic or other professional reference
- A combination of these factors

Each application will be considered on its own merit but we cannot guarantee an offer in each case.

English language requirements

All classes are taught in English. If English isn't your first language you must provide evidence at enrolment of the following:

- IELTS level 6.5 or above, with at least 5.5 in reading, writing, listening and speaking (please check our English language requirements)

Selection Criteria

We look for:

- The potential to devise and develop a self-directed programme of fine art practice and related research
- Evidence of an ability to carry out a sustained independent enquiry through making work
- The ability to analyse and evaluate in both visual and oral terms
- The ability to develop and contextualise work in written form
- An eagerness to engage in the critical debate surrounding contemporary fine art practice and to develop a critical framework for their practice

Scheduled Learning and Teaching

During your course you will engage with learning and teaching that includes both online and face-to-face modes. The advertised scheduled activity for the course will be delivered through a combination of live, synchronous and asynchronous on-line learning. This is often described as blended learning.

Definitions of our learning and teaching modes can be found here.

Course Aims and Outcomes

The Aims and Outcomes of this Course are as follows:

Aim/Outcome	Description
Aim	Promote your self-determination and agency in progressing your practices to professional contexts; through raising your awareness of very contemporary critical debates and expanded modes of practice, and providing opportunities to develop your abilities and behaviours through participation in communities of practice.
Aim	Equip you with the attributes, skills and networks to establish yourself as an artist
Aim	Provide you with a supportive and inclusive environment that enables you to build a strong community of artists and broader networks of practitioners.
Aim	Empower you to build a practice that is sensitive to contemporary conditions of art practice and to critically explore the local, national and international contexts within which art operates.
Aim	Encourage you to activate your practice in live contexts, interrogating what it means to exhibit work and explore modes for sustaining practice beyond the course.
Aim	Help provide models for continued creative and artistic practice in London and beyond.
Outcome	Demonstrate and evidence a critically articulate body of work, which shows a critical awareness of current problems and/or new insights informed by an awareness and understanding forefront of the discipline or area of professional practice.
Outcome	Plan and manage your practice in professional contexts, demonstrating the ability to act autonomously in order to plan and implement practice at an advanced level.
Outcome	Recognise and act on opportunities to develop your practice to continue to advance knowledge and understanding of art practice.
Outcome	Activate your practice in professional formats showing evidence of an ability to critically evaluate current research.

Distinctive Features
1	The location of the MA Show – at the end of the 2nd Unit – and the subsequent ‘Locating and Sustaining Your Practice’ Unit (3) marks a distinctive approach to MA Fine Art study, that signals the emphasis of process over product. The MA Show may take physical or digital form.
2	MA Fine Art will provide, live, ‘learning through doing’, experience of sustaining practice in contemporary contexts.
3	The course will interrogate what an exhibition is and what it might be. You will exhibit regularly within the college as well as externally, finding ways of making work and practices visible, engaging with appropriate audiences and activating artwork.
4	External collaborations. These change annually. Previous examples have included Sotheby’s Institute; Turner Contemporary, ACAVA (Association for Cultural Advancement through Visual Art) to source studio space for projects and incubation space and an annual New York Foundation Residency.
5	As well as exploring the local – London – as a resource, the MA Fine Art course at Chelsea will explore and interrogate the global context within which it works. This is marked by a close relationship with TrAIN research network, who contribute a series of lectures and seminars.
6	A student-led MAFA Gallery. This gallery, located within studio footprint of the course will operate like a professional, artist run space allowing you to gain experience of promotion, curation and collaboration.
7	A student-led MAFAzine. This online publication will operate like a professional art and culture magazine, allowing you to formalise your research for live audiences, and develop a critical voice through professional modes of communication, promotion, and participating in very current global debates.

Course Detail

MA Fine Art at Chelsea is designed to help enhance the making, criticality and articulation of your practice. It aims to expand your work's audiences and contextual reach. Experimental studio practice and individual inquiry are activated in professional contexts. These challenge what art is or could be, how art is communicated, and how artists can develop their practices in forward-thinking and culturally progressive ways.

What to expect

- To contextualise your work in relation to contemporary cultural practices and ideas
- To independently produce critically aware work
- To build your professional experience and portfolio through regular participation in public exhibitions, events and publications
- Regular practice consultancies, discussions, group activities and workshops
- To become an active member of an international arts community
- To participate in discursive and collaborative practices with colleagues
- To get involved in our partnerships network, through which we organise workshops, lectures, discussions, studio visits, field trips and exhibitions. These currently include Sotheby's Institute of Art and the UAL Research Centre for Transnational Art, Identity and Nation (TrAIN)

Mode of study

MA Fine Art is offered in full-time mode and runs for 45 weeks over 15 months, with a break over the summer. You will be expected to commit an average of 40 hours per week to your course, including teaching hours and independent study.

Course Units

A short description of each unit and what you can expect.

Unit 1 - Establishing a community

This unit is an introduction to your course, the college and the university.

- Inductions to learning resources at Chelsea
- To use the studios as a flexible space to produce work, foster dialogue and collaborate
- To be introduced to the concept of 'communities of practice'. This means that every practitioner is a participant within the arts community - at Chelsea, in London and globally
- Off-site activities including professional practice workshops and introductions to London's emerging art scene
- To develop your own practice and ideas through participating in dialogue and knowledge sharing with your peers
- To work collaboratively on exhibitions and events with your peers
- To continually make work in a professional context for a public audience

- To take part in a group show that is open to the public. This will take place at the end of unit 1 in the studios at Chelsea
- To be assessed on your participation in the unit 1 exhibition and your contribution to the online course publication

Unit 2 - Making your work public

This unit is structured to foster an intensive period of practice development. It is designed to help you refine your ideas and how to articulate them to different audiences.

- A lecture and seminar series to help you situate your ideas within contemporary dialogues and debates
- Writing workshops to help you approach writing as an integral part of your practice
- To create an online professional portfolio that will include your completed work, CV, artist's statement and other relevant information
- A series of professional development workshops will help you in thinking about exhibition strategies and project management
- To take part in and organise an off-site live project with your peers
- To present work in the college postgraduate show
- To submit a formal proposal for your unit 3 self-directed live project

Unit 3 - Locating and sustaining your practice

This unit is about progressing your career ambitions and will take place entirely off campus.

- To develop a proposal that outlines how you plan to progress your professional practice during the unit
- To be assigned and supported by an advisor, who is an arts professional
- To explore how you might activate your practice within an external context that you have chosen and identified as appropriate to your development. This may include setting up a studio collective with other students from the course, or operating within a professional context within London, the United Kingdom or abroad
- To be assessed on contributions to the online course publication, your online portfolio and end of unit presentation

Note: 120 Credits must be passed before the final unit is undertaken
